CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

Dear Members,

The Silver Jubilee celebration of CREDAI on 25th November was a defining moment in our journey, commemorating 25 years of steadfast commitment to transforming the real estate sector. This milestone was graced by the Honorable Shri Piyush Goyal, Minister of Commerce & Industry, who inspired us with his vision for India's growth and the real estate sector's pivotal role in achieving it.

The event provided an opportunity to honor the extraordinary contributions of our past Chairmen and Presidents, whose visionary leadership has shaped CREDAI into the robust organization it is today. It was heartening to witness their recognition, which symbolized the foundation of values and dedication upon which CREDAI stands.

One of the key moments of the commemoration was not only reflecting on our past achievements but also laying the foundation for the next 25 years of CREDAI's journey. During the event, we engaged in meaningful discussions on critical topics that the entire CREDAI fraternity is actively working on—sustainability and our shared commitment to 'Viksit Bharat 2047.' These discussions reinforced our vision for a future rooted in innovation, responsibility, and inclusivity.

My deepest gratitude goes to all members, stakeholders, and contributors who made this event a resounding success. Let us continue this momentum, working together to empower stakeholders, enhance transparency, and build a stronger, greener India.

Warm regards,

Manoj Gaur

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Members,

As 2024 draws to a close, it is heartening to witness the strides made by India's real estate sector in shaping a dynamic and resilient market. This year has been marked by robust growth, with increased sales not only in metro cities but also across Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities, reflecting the expanding aspirations of homebuyers nationwide. Stable interest rates, a growing preference for green housing, and advancements in PropTech have collectively driven this progress, transforming how we perceive and experience living spaces.

While the sector has gained significant momentum, it continues to navigate critical challenges. Policy hurdles in areas such as civil aviation and environmental clearances highlight the need for streamlined regulations to enhance ease of doing business.

Looking forward, we anticipate transformative changes in the upcoming budget. A rate cut, a revised definition of affordable housing to reflect market realities, and amendments to Section 80C to encourage homeownership could provide the much-needed impetus to sustain the sector's growth. These steps, combined with continued government support, will ensure that real estate remains a vital contributor to India's development journey.

As we embark on 2025, let us work together to overcome challenges and seize new opportunities with renewed vigor. The future holds immense potential for innovation, inclusivity, and sustainable growth, and I am confident that we will continue to play a pivotal role in building a brighter and more prosperous Bharat.

Wishing you all a successful and fulfilling year ahead.

Best regards,

Boman Irani

PART 2 ENERGY EFFICIENT EXTERNAL WALL SYSTEMS, THE INCREASING TREND

EXTERNAL WALL INSULATION & FINISHING SYSTEMS

It's very important to recognize the essence of good façade to meet both functional, durable & aesthetic objectives. External Insulation & Finishing Systems (EIFS) are integrated thermal insulation systems for walls that can be combined with a diverse range of finishes and allowing for customization. These systems integrate superior functional performance with aesthetic versatility. This multilayer system enhances external walls with: (i) insulation panels fixed using adhesive and mechanical anchors, (ii) a basecoat with reinforcing mesh, and (iii) a final decorative finish available in various colours and textures.

Proven to build highly durable facades, EIFS delivers outstanding performance against heat ingress and water penetration. It offers exceptional resistance to cracking, impacts, mold, mildew, and weathering, ensuring aesthetically pleasing, long-lasting facades that significantly improve building energy efficiency.

Recent heatwaves in our country, exacerbated by climate change, underscore the urgency for effective building cooling solutions. As air-conditioning systems struggle to maintain indoor comfort at temperatures exceeding 50°C, EIFS will emerge to become a necessity than option in near future. By reducing thermal transmission through exterior walls, EIFS helps stabilize indoor temperatures, easing the load on cooling systems and enhancing occupant comfort and energy efficiency.

Also, even in colder regions and across Europe, EIFS adoption has surged for its ability to conserve heating energy and improve building insulation. This global trend underscores EIFS's versatility and effectiveness across diverse climates, reinforcing its status as a preferred choice for sustainable building practices worldwide.

FEATURES & BENEFITS OF EIFS SYSTEM

Applied Externally
No thermal bridging and does not affect the use of the building

Highly Energy Efficient
Reduction in air conditioning load & operating electricity costs

Superior Weatherproofing
Rain waterproof & crack resistant

Highly Breathable
No thermal bridging and does not affect the use of the building

Superior Fire Resistance
No thermal bridging and does not affect the use of the building

Provides Acoustic Insulation
No thermal bridging and does not affect the use of the building

Increases the durability of façade
Protects the load-bearing structure from temperature changes & exposure to the open-air.

Range of Finishes
Wide range of finishes providing vibrant aesthetic appeal with excellent resistance to dirt, mold & microorganisms.

COMPLAINTCE TO ECBC & ECO-NIWAS SAMHITA GUIDELINES

For commercial buildings, EIFS system adds to the thermal resistance of the external walls and thereby helps in achieving the prescribed wall assembly U Factor as per ECBC guidelines.

For Residential buildings, EIFS system helps in reducing the U-Value of Opaque elements (external wall assembly) and thereby contributes significantly to reduce RETV (Residential envelope transmittance value). This will help designers to achieve RETV compliance as per Eco-Niwas Samhita guidelines.

RANGE OF FINISHES WITH EIFS SYSTEM

As final finish for EIFS systems, a variety of high-performance acrylic based mineral renders, synthetic-mineral render with stone finishes, acrylic based silicon resin renders are available. The system can also be cladded with natural stone tiles, brick slips and ceramic tiles.

Features of high-performance acrylic textures:

- Ready to use synthetic coloured mineral render for weatherproofing and decorating façades.
- Washable & Resistant to aging.
- Spray applied - Quick and easy application.
- Highly breathable and formulated with additives capable of preventing and delaying the appearance of molds and algae.
- Provides additional resistance against impacts and punctures.
- Available in Thin/ Medium/thick/Grated finishes.

In conclusion, EIFS systems not only meet current regulatory standards and architectural aspirations but also anticipate future environmental challenges. By integrating advanced insulation technologies with aesthetic flexibility, EIFS systems empowers the designers and engineers to achieve optimal energy performance while creating visually appealing building facades.

Credai Urges Govt to Take Measures to Promote Affordable Homes

When a Shah Rukh Khan movie is released, everybody talks about it. High-profile homes have that quality. We often discuss the lack of affordable homes. However, 45-60 sq ft homes are still being sold but not in the same price bracket as the government categories of affordable (45-60 sq ft price bracket). So, the sales numbers have increased, but they no longer come in the ₹45 lakh price bracket.

Faizan Haidar New Delhi: The Confederation of Real Estate Developers' Association of India (Credai) has urged the government to set in motion strategic reforms and policy interventions such as change in the definition of affordable housing, input-tax credit and availability of land through effective zoning and streamlined land acquisition policies to build a sustainable and inclusive real estate ecosystem.
